

Go Out on Limb-- Try Clocked Socks

BY REBA AND BONNIE CHURCHILL

Stepping sprightly into the fall scene are these gay knee-high to full-length knit walking socks that extend warmth and color clear to the tiptoe. Such fun fashions find teeners "going out on a limb" and ornamenting hose with appliques.

Taking a cue from the "clock stitch" that decorates dad's stockings, Annette Funicello models beaded jewel watches that strike a new style note (top photo).

Walking socks that don't go "walking" into little sister's wardrobe are these ribbed woolens with stitched-on monogram (center photo). Such limb brighteners range from

Equally at home in or outdoors, Annette's signature socks can go from a brisk hike to just floor relaxin' listening to her new Disneyland disc, "How Will I Know My Love?"

It's date time at the malt shop, so why not match your strawberry soda with a berry cluster spiraling down your stocking (bottom photo)? Brilliantly beaded red and green appliques, available at notion sections, have both adhesive and sew-on backings, which make for easy-to-apply dazzle decorations.
